Hord Coplan Macht retrofitted a temporary NICU to be used during the new NICU's construction for Phase 1 of this project.

Phase 2 of the project involved the renovation of an existing NICU to provide hybrid services including 5 private rooms and 15 open bay patient care areas. A core group including the design team, facility infrastructure staff, facility leadership, and staff leadership regularly met to ensure all parties were present for planning and decision making.

Many in-depth rounds of design were reviewed with the core group. Mock-ups of staff work areas were created to help ensure successful work flow. The design focused on the facility's need for quiet, restful space in a high-stress, critical care environment.
